PRIDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1905. THE SULTAN AND THE POWERS.

A telegran from London, which we published of yesterday, stated that it is expected that the combined feets of the Powers will appear in the Lorant at the end of this week, while another telegrant from Visuan Informed us that if this demonstration did not record in the condition of the combined from the conditions of the combined for the conditions of the conditions of the conditions of the conditions of the Darkaselles will be dealered. THE CHAOS IN RUSSIA

THE CHAOS IN RUSSIA.

To day's news from Russia is as hopeless as ever and the telegrams of massacre and anto-da-fes shows a state of affairs which beggars description and defairs analysis, while report, the one man who appears to have had a policy of any sort, has been thrown overboard. One can synapsthise with every one: with the people who have had so bitter a does of paper currency that they demand the gold of deeds; with the authorities, who insist on law and order at any price as a precedent to reforms which sinust, even if sincerely attempt, and with the wretohed Thas, who can do nothing right after having does so much wrong. The revolutionary leaders du it to foster agitation when they should give the Government one more change of satabilishing peasofulty? Constitutional Monardy, and the Government one more change of satabilishing peasofulty? Constitutional Monardy, and the Government away by this past conduct brought all these troubles on themselves and Rossia.

THE EGYPTIAN POLICE.

A MODEL FORCE

A MUDBLE FORCE!

A leading New York newspaper, in an article on the shortcomings of the Philippine constabulary, remarks:—

"Experience in Egypt and elsewhere has shown that it is far better to control the natives by means of natives than by-foreign soldiers, who understand little of the local language and utill less of the contoms and feelings of the people. In Egypt the establishment of the Egyptian gendermerie was neither refigme; in their reators, politicoses, and efficiency the Egyptian mounted constables are well worthy of imitation. The near who organised the Philippine Constabulary modorbodly had Gromer's policie in mind, and were on the right track. It is only in the excention of their plans that misskes have been made. Primarily, they organised their Constabulary as peace force, it was heafly under way when they were forced to use it in extala warfare in competition with the Philippine Sconty, now an adjunct of the United States army, and wire even called upon to fight slongs'it's of regular soldiers."

CHRONIQUE THEATRALE

Le chef d'œavre du grand Corneille a poussé an théatre bian plus de carieux que "l'Aven-turiere." Et c'est justice. Des tragédies d'une aussi malle éloqueuce, d'une tello élévation de style et de sentiment, d'un enchloument avesi simple et aussi puissant, le siècle de Louis XIV simple et aussi puissant, le secte de Louis Alv n'en a produit qu'une et c'est le "Cid." Lorsque de telles pièces sont dignement re-présentées, elles ne manquent jamais d'élec-triser la foule. Hâtons-nous de dire de la troupe riser la fouie. Hatons-nous de dire de la trod ,embert qu'elle a été à la hauteur de la situ ion. Son succès a été délirant, le succès su out de M. Un frisson d'admiration a courn dans tout l'auditoire; con se avait et qu'il fallait admirer d'avantage du génie qui avait atteint de telles hauteurs ou de ses interprétes qu'il avaisant si bien compris. Et toute la prèce a été sinsi rendue, nous voulons dire toutes les schens ou paraissent Rodrique et Chimbon, cur les autres acteurs n'atteignent

Quant à M. Lambert Père nous ne dissimnlerons pas qu'il deis beancoup mienx en Annibal être plus développée chez loit que la veine tragique. Toutolois, il a eu d'heurenses tirades

M. Lambert Pile et Milo Delvair out cloturé

WHAT IS WHISKY?

FACTS ABOUT THE BLENDING OF SCOTCH.

PENDING PROSECUTIONS.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

Edinb

Edinburgh.

The query "What is whisky?" is one which would probably meet with a wide variety or answers, according to the circumstances or tastes of the person to whom it was pat.

The market porter, for instance, would probably regard as whisky that which approximated most nearly to Mark Twain's "torchlight procession"; while the West-end connicesors would demand the finest flealings with the world with approximation of the approximation of a cigar, it is entirely a question of the education of the palate. Insamuch, however, as the degree of education of the palate.

the one of the appreciation of a cigar, it is settictly a question of the polacetion of the palacetion of the palacetic linear properties of the control of the palacetion is limited in ordinary cases by the length of the purse, it I as long been felt that something was necessary in the way of protection for chose whose means do not allow of the payment of fanop prices. It is a trite saying that the appetite grows by what it feeds on, and the consumer of inferior food, whather meat or drink, eventually develops a depraved craving for what his more fortnate bretherm would regard as more naviness. Thus, in the almost of our large cities, the descent from lowgrade finry whisky to methylated spirits has become an easy one, in spite of the determing admixture of wood naphths. The horror resulting from the consumption of such injurious concections are too wall known to require the application here, and all that need be said is that they fully justify the agitation to make onlawful the free sale of what are nothing more or less than poison. nothing more or less than poisons

BATTLE OF THE STILLS

But it is not only among consumers that there is diversity of opinion as to what constitutes whisky; in the trade itself—and it may be explained here that what is more particularly referred to in this article is Scotch whisky axplained here that what is more particularly referred to in this article is Sooth whisky—there are the widest possible differences of opinion. One section, consisting mostly of the Highland distillers, strongly backed up by the agricultural interest, hold that multi-whisky—that is, whisky made in a pot still—and malt whisky only, is entitled to the name of "whisky." Urain spirit, or spirit made in a patent still, they contend, should be called "patent still spirit," so as to distinguish it from malt whisky. The distillers of grain spirits, on the other hand, argue that their product is as mech entitled to the name "whisky" as spirit distilled in a pot still, and so the battle goes on, each section spirits on the other hand, argue that their product is as mech entitled to the name "whisky" as spirit distilled in a pot still, and so the battle goes on, each section spirits for its own hand. But this battle of the stills, important as it may be to the trade, is of little interest to the public, as it does nothing to decid the read point at issue. What the ganeral public is painfully awars of, and what it wants remedied, it the circumstance that much of the whisky sold as "pore Highland malt whisky" is either simply raw griff distilled in London or somewhere else from Indian orm, potatone, or other sugar-producing substance, or a mixture containing such spirit in varying proportion. Owing to the guat popularity of Sootch whisky as a hevenge in recent years, what is known as the bleeding trade has assumed giant proportions. d giant proportions.

THE BLENDING OF SCOTCH WHISEY which is quite lagitimate when carried on fairly, and to which, must be attributed the rapid growth of the drink in public fator, originally meant the mixing or bleading begether of the well-mastered products of two or more repetable Bottch distilleries in such proportions as the bleader found by long apperience would form a palastible beverage. But the temptation to reduce the cost at the expense of the quality was too much for many in the trade, and matters have steadily gone from bed to worse antil a large proportion of ro-called Sootch whisky has come to be raw grain spirit with an infinitesimal proportion of Highland malt whisky as a top-dressing. THE BLENDING OF SCOTCH WHISKY

This is a fact which admits of no dispute This is a fact which admits of no dispute, and is readily conceded by those in the trade who have its best interests at heart. It is quite nuncescaray in dealing with this question of "What is whisky" to draw loud pictures of the harm done by raw grain spirits or of the nasteons materials from which the spirits are distilled. I is simply a question of mist precentation, and whother the consumer is entitled to get what he payfor or not.

WH IT IS NEEDED.

WH VT IS NEEDED.

In short, what is needed it a standard for whisky. Without that any concection of melasees or potate spritt may be called whicky just as the counsel for the defeave in the first brandy presenting at Hamilton in Stotland quoted from an old dictionary to show that spirits distilled from, among other things, black ants might be celled brandy! For years this question of a legal definition for whisky has exercised the mind of the trade, as well a construction of the thinking consumer, but no action has been accepted the mind of the trade, as well as any given scapel of whisky is not what it is represented to be. For it stance, where a milking of grain spirits and malt whicky, and bring old as "pure Highland malt whicky," as bring old as "pure Highland malt whicky," it would be necessary, in order to obtain a conviction, to prove what the constituents outside the standard of and the proportion which they bore to each other. Until quite recently analysts were totally made to do that, or, indeed, to distinguish with certainty gain spirits from mall whicky. Reports might, and in most cases no doubt would, be able to faithinguish between the two classes of spirit by string the string the string and the proportion of the string that is might be the string the string that it is the string that it is the string that it is the string that the strin taste, but this would be too uncertain hazardons a method for the courts of law. But within recent years analytical sci back, out this would be do shoreram and hazardous a method for the courts of law.

But within room, years analytical science has been making great strides. By taking into account the presence of certain ethers and their proportion it has become possible to distinguish Cognac brandy from spurious imitations, practically revolutioning the brandy trade, and now it is claimed that by a similar method it is possible to tell the constituents of a bottle of whisky and their origin. The popular fallacy that the quality of whisky is to a large actant determined by the presence of real collection of the constituents of a bottle of whisky and the sheenoof forced oil has long been disproved by chemists, who found that fosel oil existed in wall matured whisky of the finest quality, withis little or no trace of it was discoverable in grain spirits fresh from the still.

TEST CASES.

TEST CASES.

Happily, there is every prospect of obtaining an authoritative ruling on the subject before imany days are over. The matter has been boldly tackled in North London, and summonses issued. There is a considerable section of people opposed to the prevailing misdescription, who think that a conviction would be best obtained by a procreotion under the Merchandies Marks. Act; and this, it may be mentioned, has hitherto been the view of the authorities, but the pending presentions, it is orities, but the pending prosecutions, it is restood, are to be thrashed out on the basis anderstood, are to be threshed out on the basis of the analysis. In trade circles the keenest possible interest is being taken in the proceedings, and it is generally recognised that if a conviction is obtained it will, be the signal for a flood of similar proceedings all over the country, One or two firms are taking time by the forelock, and stating in plain terms on the label what the blend in the bottle consists of, as well as the are of the component parts. If this plain definition were made obligatory by law, it would seep away once and for all this mass of the component parts of the mass of the component say, with the configuration say, with the configuration say, with the configuration of the Government and its officials.

MONARCHY OR REPUBLIC.

MONARCHY OR REPUBLIC.

The Norwegians have met with a good deal of bitter criticism in France and elsewhere on the Goatinean, because they have decided to be governed by a King and not to set up a Republic Mr. Arne Hammer, in the "Courrier Baropéen," replies at length to these objectors and asys that, as far as regards home slight, the Norwegians prefer a Constitutional King," whose Ministers will govern, to "plebiseins, the Norwegians prefer a Constitutional King," whose Ministers will govern, to "plebiseins, the stem centralisation of France, or to the complete of the continuation of the stem centralisation of France, or to the complete of the continuation of the stem centralisation of France, or to the continuation of the Continuatio

BRITISH TRADE PROSPERITY.

Figures indicating the prosperous condition of British trade were quoted by Mr. J. Spencer Phillips in his presidential address to the Institute of Bankers. The Clearing House starms for the last ten months were 10,093 millions, against 6,891 millions, or an increase of 18 per cent., which is a record in the recent history of the Cleaning House. In other directions the outlook was distinctly encouraging, and he predicted an era of great prosperity.

BUILDING UP THE GERMAN NAVY

TO ELECTRIFY THE SIMPLON.

Now that the boring of the Simplon tannel is complete, the question is being debated as to whether the lines of rail rounning through it should be governed by steam or by electric raction. A leading Swiss from has mode a definite proposal for an electric lira, and there is this in its favor—that the electric installations at Brig, that were used during the tannel operations, could be encommeight utilised. The question is now being seriously examined.

Whilst this weak's Bank return can certainly not be considered a strong showing, still it has not proved to be worse than the market generally acticipated. Owing to the usual demand for internal requirements of cash at the end of the month and to Scottlah withdrawals, there has been a shrinkage of over $700,000 in the reserve, which has now fallen to $20,770,643, and the proportion of each to liabilities has consequently declined 1 ½ to $2.1.70. Russian Troubbes.

The situation in Russia, coupled with the fears that the serious news received to day is only the forerunner of graver troubles, has had a depressing effect upon the stock markets bere since our last. It is no longer possible for the Continental bankers to think of issuing a new Russian loan for some time now, hence the question arises as to how long the authorities in that country can continue without a fresh supply of money. Paris, on this point, seems to take a more optimistic view than London. Possibly they place more faith in the Tax's manifesto than is the case with financiers here.

Gilt-Edged Stocks.

Gills-Edged Stocks.

Consols improved in the early part of the week to 83 Å, but they have fallen away again to 88 Å, and other gill-edged securities are also lower. Reasian stocks promptly responded to the news from 8t. Petersburg that the Tax had granted a Constitution, and Fours were up 3 Å on Wednesday, but the improvement has not been maintained, and Hery leave off to-night at 91 Å. Japanese bonds have been quite bouyant, and the new conversion scheme has been taken to keenly by the market here. Despired that this new loss has been post-poned is not credited; on the contray, it is believed that this operation will take place in the near future. Japanese close to-night at 96 Å. Ralls

Ratle.

Home rails have been a good market during the week, as a result of continued satisfactory traffic reports, the Northern lines receiving the larger share of attention. In the American railway market also there has been quite a large business done, and some of the operations are said to have emanated from influential quarters. The tone looks good, and with the further encouraging news of increasing property in the States it would seem that prices should certainly hold their present level, if they do not go higher.

Egyptians.

The Egyptian market has been almost lifeliess since our last, and prices all round are lower, but close slightly higher to-night. National Banks have been offered at 263, but after changing hands at this price they snightly recovered to 563 and laser off better to-night at 264.7. The new shares close 64 premains. Agricultural Banks have been firm at 94, and the new issues at 94. They leave off to-night at 94 and 94 respectively. Business in the shares of Union Foncières d'Egypt's he been very quiet state the night discontations of last week, and they close at 14 premains. Dairs Saniel Ord, after being down to 174, faish up at 174. There has been a good demand for the deferred thares, which have rises from 103-5 to 105 strong buyers. There has also been a small equity for Gredit Foncière d'Egypt's he been practically 174. Egyptian Investment and Agency have resorted to 74—74 premium, but the business in these shares has boss practically 110. Dairs Segar keep quiet at 44-3. Dalas Land & Investment have recovered to 94.

The new Abysenina Bank is expected about the 75 in the well the 75 in the well the 75 in the 100 to 100

The new Adysmian Bank is expected about the 7th inst., and will consist of 100,000 shares of 25 each, which we understand will be issued at the considerable premium of 25,000 styles of 25 each, which have been applied for by the Berlin Bank Far Handel und Industria. The National Bank of Egypt will come in for a considerable share of the profits one in a considerable share of the profits one in the second styles of 10 % and a dividend of 7 % have been provided for.

In the mining market Kaffirs had a distinctly better tons, and Rho Iosians were firm but dull. Bankets remained steady in anticipation of the impending floataion.

The Egyptian section exhibited a firmer tone. Nile Valley advanced it to 1 it. and Unit Ras were up to 1, an advance of it or 1 at. and week.
